A Complex Canopy

CASE STUDY

Commercial Canopy installation for open air street food venue 'The Yard' in Ely, Cambridge, installed by our Trade Partner Cambridge Canopies

Trade Partners are seeing a rise in demand from commercial venues looking to maximise their usable living space, with outdoor dining proving to be increasingly popular across the UK & Ireland over recent years following the pandemic.

Milwood Group recently received communication from our Trade Partner, Cambridge Canopies, that they had completed work on their project at the open-air street food venue known as 'The Yard' in Ely, Cambridge. The install was highly complex, utilising our Simplicity 35 system and its range of benefits for commercial venues including the unlimited length.

With their experience in domestic and commercial venues, Cambridge Canopies, formerly known as Cambridge Style Canopies, has built a wide portfolio of successful projects in partnership with Milwood Group over the years.

The new street food venue opened for business on 21st March 2023 and has already seen an influx of satisfied consumers who have thoroughly enjoyed the outdoor dining venue. With UK weather still rather unpredictable at this time of year, our Simplicity 35 has created sufficient shelter to protect both the guests and vendors from the elements.

More than 600 guests poured into the new venue upon opening, spread across 5 shipping containers with a variety of food and drink retailers available along with a children's play area.

The installation of our multiple Simplicity 35 systems is secured to an aluminium Goal Post framework, supplied by a third party, with multiple Simplicity 35's extending across the containers, walkways, and outdoor seating areas while still allowing sufficient height clearance. It also meant Cambridge were able to create a widespread free-standing structure that is robust and built to last, but most importantly safe to provide peace of mind for the guests.

As our aluminium systems are highly versatile, they can be used in many creative ways. Therefore, we supplied our rooftop main bars, standing posts, and bronze tinted polycarbonate glazing for Cambridge to bring it all together with an externally sourced materials required.

Our highly durable canopy

Aluminium garden canopies provide decades of reliable service.

There are many benefits to choosing aluminium ahead of more traditional construction materials such as timber, composite and steel. Not only is aluminium one of the strongest metals, it allows a UK-based manufacturer such as Milwood Group to create highly robust systems at a cost-effective price. You can provide your customers with a truly positive return on their long-term investment.

Aluminium is the second strongest metal, only second to its counterpart Steel. However, pound-for-pound the strength of aluminium is unrivalled. The lightweight nature allows for easy transportation and ease of installation on site, requiring little more than a 2 person team, the required tools, and our free installation training.

Outdoor living has seen a huge increase in demand over recent years, with many homeowners and commercial venues looking to utilise their outdoor space. As we approach the summer, we are officially entering our busiest time of year for trade, but we are well-equipped to handle the demands of our 350+ trade partners and more.

Milwood Group outdoor living solutions are entirely fabricated and distributed in-house. Including our highly durable powder-coat finish. This means we can create bespoke sizes to fit every space, and project solutions to meet even the most complex specifications.

As the market-leading UK-based manufacturer, we're confident you'll find our systems are unparalleled in terms of durability and longevity, as we promise a minimum 60-year life expectancy and a 10-year guarantee.

This is just skimming the surface of why aluminium is the new optimal choice for outdoor living solutions such as our range of verandas, canopies, and carports. Meanwhile, A-Fence is set to revolutionise the garden/perimeter fencing industry, offering a new long-term solution that will make broken fence panels a thing of the past.

To ensure you are giving yourself the best chance of success and converting those all-important leads, be sure to arrange a meeting with us so we can tailor our support to your business needs and incorporate our products into your range with the best possible marketing support and customer service.
